You begin, today, as freshmen, experiencing everything for the first time. Today you start high school, go to your first assembly and football game, take your first English test, and elect the first class officers.

On the sadder side of being a freshman, today you dropped all your books in the main hall and forgot your locker combination.

You sophomores look to this year as the time when you may sit with the upper classmen, laugh at those little freshmen, and when with a whole year of experience, you are allowed to join some clubs. The second year in high school also means a new variety of courses. You can take drama and business classes, have a study hall, and take a half year of health. This year can also mean being on Junior Varsity Rally or going to a special game.

To you juniors, this year means being upperclassmen. You look forward to being on varsity rally, joining National Honor Society, being on the Post or Almanac staff, and working in the student store or one of the offices. Maybe you are able to drive cars to school, join the Junior Symphony or work as a Candy Striper. All of you juniors look forward to acquiring class pins this year, and, of course, to attending the Prom.

... For Yesterday is but a Dream.

As seniors, you have the best view of all. You see all four years that have rushed by so quickly, remembering all the plays, football games, dances, tests, homework assignments and crowded assemblies. You remember all the tears and laughter, all the failures and successes.

... And Tomorrow is only a Vision: ...

You seniors also look to the future, anticipating business training, college boards, scholarships, college and job applications, the Senior Prom, graduation . . .

Administration Faces Dilemma Of Finances And Education

What will happen to PIL athletics this year? What programs will have to be cut from the agenda this year? Will we lose all extracurricular activities completely? How much money will we have to use for the school and its activities? These are just a few of the hundreds of questions which raced through the minds of our principal, Mr. Arthur L. Westcott, after the school levy failed for a second time. By mid-September Mr. Westcott found that the year was filled with more activities than had been originally expected, and school was somewhat normal. In addition to being Franklin's principal, he is head of the Teacher's Conference Committee and is also president of the Portland High School Principal's Association.

Another of our administrators, Mr. Donald Holt, assumed new and doubled duties this year as Vice-Principal in charge of boys and girls. Last year he was responsible only for the boys, but due to Miss Grant's retirement he has become responsible for discipline and attendance of all 2346 students. Student council, school finances, and the athletic program are under his supervision.

Mr. Jack King, curriculum Vice-Principal, had a difficult time this year scheduling the tremendous influx of freshmen. The limited amount of space made it increasingly hard to schedule students and, in fact, some even had to be turned away to register at neighboring schools.

Really Art Department Stresses Appreciation, Understanding And Skill.

Ranging from general art to interior design, many different aspects of the art field are offered to students at Franklin.

In art general, students experiment with medias of oil paint, tempera, water color, charcoal and pencil. Many different fields are emphasized in art metal and textile weaving classes. Interior design classes focus on one and two perspective room designs and furniture periods. Commercial art classes stress advertising layouts and production processes. Art staff gives students who have the consent of their previous instructor a chance to apply their knowledge by creating posters, banners and signs for the school. For the college-bound student without previous art experience, an art understanding course is offered. The students study paintings by the masters, sculptures, architecture and art in our community.

Those subjects include bookkeeping, in which the fundamentals of office machines are taught. The general business series starts with general business and first year typing and ranges to advanced typing, shorthand and bookkeeping.

Students with a background in advanced office practice may apply for a course called work experience, in which students are excused early to work in local business offices.

Still other students can gain valuable experience by working in the various offices around the school.

Mr. Manning Advises Students On Selection Of Colleges

Mr. James Manning is a well-known figure around Franklin High School. He has been college and vocational counselor for many years. This year, in addition to his already numerous duties, he teaches two classes, a junior social studies and a vocational class. In his role of college counselor, his main job consists of acquainting students with various colleges by making information about each college available to them. Mr. Manning compiles college folders for promising students. Included in these folders are scores on various college tests and recommendations from teachers. Using this information and talking to the student he is better able to advise them as to which college would be best suited to their needs. Capable students who need help may apply for scholarships through Mr. Manning. Students who desire employment may apply to him, and he attempts to place them or send them to business establishments where they might be able to obtain work.

Curriculum Council Considers School Problems

Australian teacher, Sister Basil Cooney, visiting Portland to observe biology procedures, sits in on Curriculum Council meeting with Miss Bohlen.

Thirteen teachers representing almost all of the different departments in the school, plus three parents from the community, who have children in school, comprise the Curriculum Council. Their job is to discuss problems in the school's curriculum such as new courses to be offered and ways that established courses can be improved. Teachers, administrators, and students through their parents, may bring up problems about the curriculum. Solutions are then proposed at meetings which are held every Tuesday after school. The teachers who belong to this group are selected by Mr. King from a list of volunteers and serve for a three year period. This year the chairman of Curriculum Council is Miss Bohlen.

Two of every freshman's required courses are English and social studies. The classes are taught by the same teacher in consecutive periods and are known as combined classes.

Freshmen study grammar in Robert's Patterns of English. They also read and analyze such literature as Homer's Odyssey, Six Centuries of Great Poetry, The Yearling, and Mid Summer Night's Dream.

The first year of study in social studies concentrates on the history of Africa, Southeast Asia and Europe from the Renaissance to the 1900's. Special emphasis is placed on the major religions and cultures of the world.

Counselors Play Important Role In Forecasting

A student's counselor is one of the most important and influential people in his high school career. His counselor is not only concerned with the courses he will need to prepare for his future vocation, but with his character development as well. The classes that are to be taken during the next year are discussed by the student and his counselor during the process of forecasting. Students schedule individual conferences with their counselors to talk over various subjects suited to their interests, problems, or vocational plans. Past performance, known ability, and teachers' recommendations are used as guides in selecting classes.

The English Department offers comprehensive courses for students during their four years at Franklin. Since English is a required subject for everyone, different phases of English are covered through the successive courses.

The department strives to help students master their skills of self-expression. This comes through proper spelling and grammatical sentence construction and the skillful analysis of literature helps the student improve his English continually, both orally and in writing.

Furthermore, the student studies selected essays, short stories, and poetry, thus familiarizing the student with important authors and styles and the capacity to recognize plot and theme. Many great and well known British authors of the 19th and early 20th centuries are studied.

One Act Plays Featured By Franklin High Drama Department

Dramatics and forensics are among the elective English courses available. Beginning dramatics courses focus on the basics of acting which include instruction in pantomime, voice and characterization. Much of the learning is from direct class acting to help the student gain the greatest possible amount of knowledge. More advanced theater arts training is offered which concentrates on historical development and evaluation.

Forensics in the beginning courses, works to improve the skills of the organization and expression of ideas. Besides the first year speech course, above average students can, during the sophomore year, take a pilot English class which includes two days a week of speech analysis. In the more advanced classes of speech, the principles of debate are taught and participation in speaking contests is encouraged.

Library Offers Resources To Academic Quakers

Another elective offered by the English Department is a semester course in effective reading. It is provided for those students who wish to expand their reading comprehension and speed, especially those going on to college.

Franklin educates many foreign students each year who have moved to this country, but cannot speak or understand the English in varying degrees. Because of their need to communicate, an English Language Development course is offered them.

The program also is designed to include familiarization to the students of the American culture. Most of the emphasis is on developing the student's ability to speak and understand English, but structural knowledge is also taught.

For all interested sophomores, juniors, and seniors, a course in library training is offered. Among the things taught for the future librarians are shelving, indexing and work with periodicals. Often this training, which also counts as one elective credit towards graduation, leads the student to jobs in the branches of the public library.

Almanac Published Out Of State

Franklin High School's yearbook The Almanac is put out by a staff of 20 who meet in room 169 seventh period. The staff consists of select juniors and seniors who are interested in publications.

This year instead of publishing the book in town, the staff voted to send the book to California to have it printed. The staff members have to schedule pictures, order prints, write copy and plan page layouts. This year, however, the staff members do not have to prepare the pages for the lithographer, this part being taken care of at the publishers. The staff also votes on the colors to be used on the book and a design for the cover, hoping to please the student body.

Journalism Staff Keeps Students Post-ed

As a prerequisite for taking a beginning course in journalism, a student has to have a good deal of interest in writing. It is offered as one of the special elective English courses at Franklin. Both beginning and advanced journalism classes are provided frequent films; field trips and guest speakers add variety to the learning situation.

By completing a beginning journalism course successfully, a student is eligible to work on the Post staff. Included on the Post staff are the editor, a photographer, a cartoonist, reporters, a business manager, and a typist.

Almost all aspects of newspaper production are experienced by the members of the Post staff, who work under the instruction and guidance of Mr. Geoff Cole.

Study Of Customs And Cultures Supplements Foreign Language Courses

With each new stride in our modern, advancing technology, the nations of the world are drawn closer together. Communications have increased our need to understand the neighbors, not only next door but around the world. Thus, it becomes essential for most of today's students to become proficient in more than one language.

Our own Foreign Language Department offers four-year sequences in German, Russian, French, and Spanish, and a two-year sequence of Latin. It is equipped with an efficient language lab.

Besides the language itself, the faculty recognizes that knowledge of the culture and customs of that country is important, is helpful to the students, and makes the courses more beneficial and interesting.

Some members of the faculty have traveled extensively in the countries where the language which they teach is spoken.

Home Economics Prepares Girls For The Future

Home economics courses are ideal for preparing a young lady for her future as a home maker. She gains knowledge in child care, management of finances, decorating and designing, home decoration, and a unit on food and nutrition.

The basics of cooking, clothing and life with a family are learned during her freshman year. During the sophomore and junior years these topics are gone into more deeply and each project becomes an increasing challenge. As a senior student she studies home management, marriage and subjects of importance to family life. This prepares her for the world that is waiting for her after her graduation from high school. Whether she becomes a dietician, dental assistant, housewife, nurse, or a career woman, each girl will find a home economics course very rewarding.

Welding pieces of jewelry requires delicate skill and technical know-how.

Shop facilities give Franklin students an opportunity to gain up-to-date job skills. An increased demand for skilled workers gives students with the right training and knowledge unique opportunities for immediate employment.

Drafting, electronics, woodshop, and metal shop are the courses offered to the freshmen. If combined, these courses can be put to good use paving the way for future creative efforts.

The Almanac and Post staffs often make use of pictures taken by students in photography class. In this course students learn the proper ways to handle a camera, and how to develop and process pictures.

Each year, Franklin has a Fine Arts Festival in which many industrial arts students display interesting items they have made. Among these are go-karts, tables, lamps, stereo sets, doodle-bug frames, and cabinets.

Intermediate Algebra Added To List Of Mathematics Courses Offered At Franklin

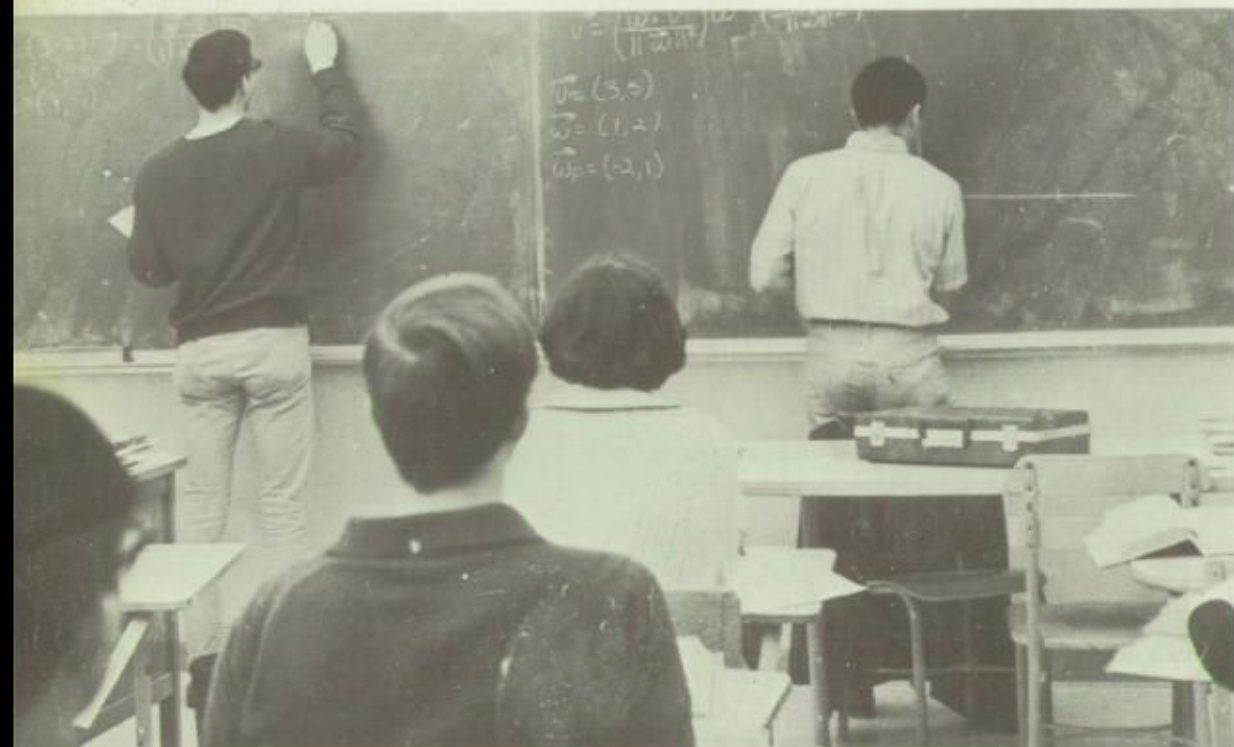

Mr. Hansen explains use of functions to 2nd year algebra students.

The Mathematics Department offers many varied courses to the students of Franklin. One year of mathematics is required by the state and can be easily fulfilled during the freshman year by taking general mathematics. First year algebra, geometry, (for those who have had algebra in 8th grade), and a relatively new course, MIA 1-2 which is a sequence covering MA 1-2 and MG 1-2 in three years, instead of the normal two, are offered.

For the students who pursue higher mathematics, courses are available which include trigonometry and mathematical induction. In these more complicated courses, the student learns to apply various principles of logic, and is taught to think from an abstract point of view about the complicated assignments, tests, and class discussions. Through these techniques, they can understand and explain difficult problems which become applicable on the job in today's highly advanced technological world.

Quakers Sing Out In Major Choirs and Various Ensembles

Part of the Franklin music department is devoted to the development of vocal music. Franklin is proud of its choirs, "A" Choir, "B" Choir, and Girls' Choir which are under the direction of Mr. Peery and Mr. Brewer.

Besides these, there are various other small groups comprised of outstanding members chosen by the directors. These include Madrigals, Highlights, Starlighters, and Intonations.

Freshmen may choose to participate in freshman girls' glee club or the freshman boys' glee club. In their sophomore year, they may continue with music and they will be placed in "A" or "B" choir or an ensemble.

In the field of music anyone who has the desire to play an instrument in either the band or orchestra, will find many opportunities for experience and training. Individual help is available for those who need it. Large numbers of students can participate in the instrumental department. In the orchestra, for example, there is a 34-piece string section, with a complement of brass and woodwind instruments in addition.

Students who are interested and who also enjoy attending Franklin's football and basketball games may become members of the school band. Beside the games, the Rose Festival Parade, the Fairy Tale Parade, and the All-City Band Festival are among the other activities in which the band takes part.

Girl's P.E. class learns fundamentals of guarding and shooting.

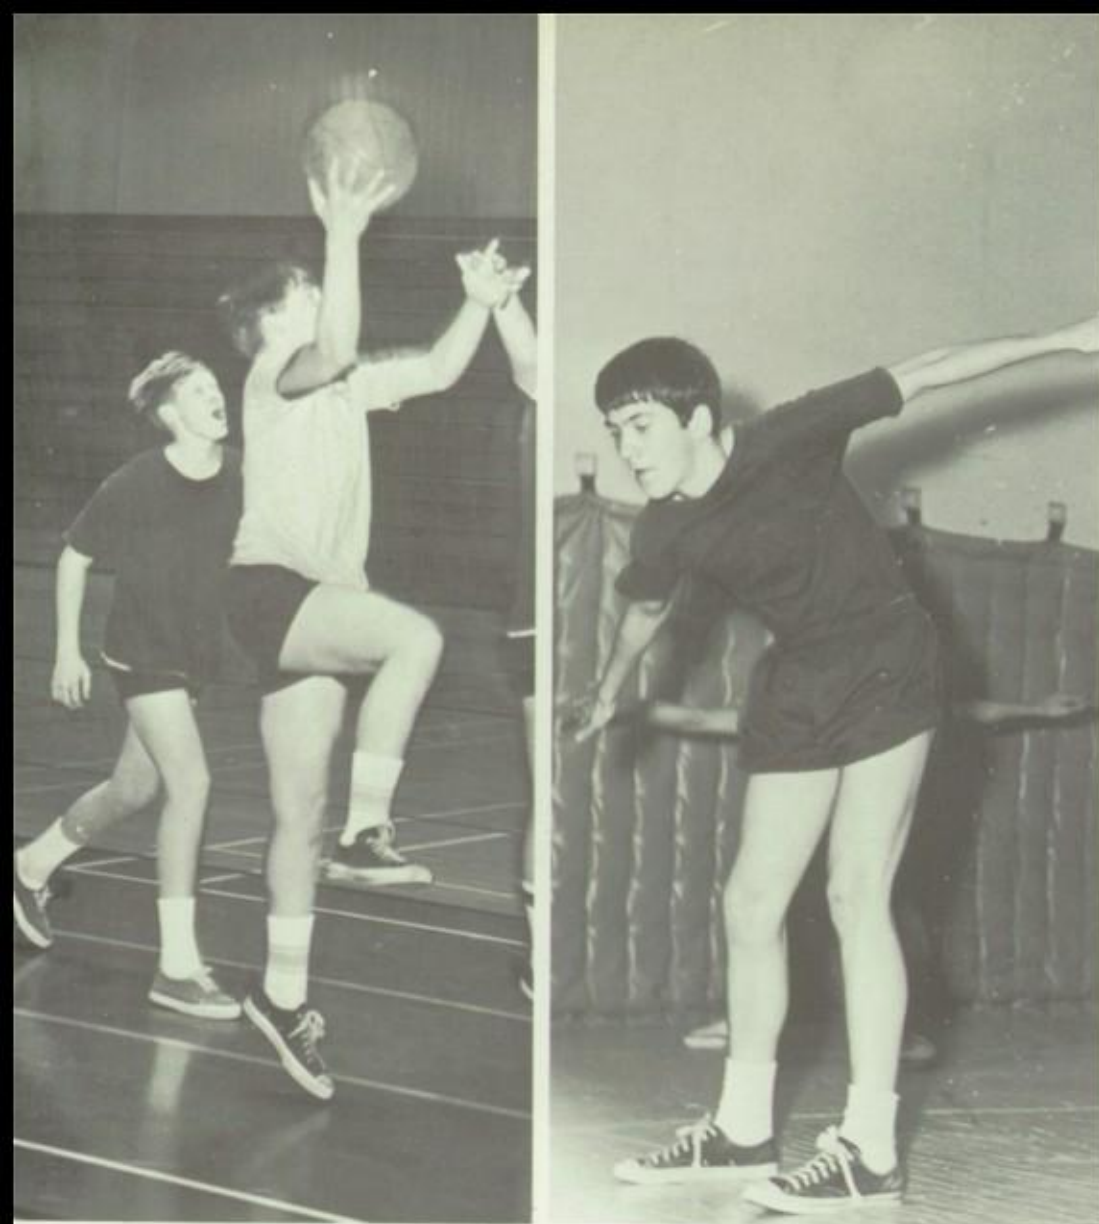

In order to meet graduation requirements, a year and a half of physical education must be taken and passed by each student. A semester of health is also required. Such subjects as smoking and alcoholism and their dangers, mechanics of the human body, and a unit on driver education, are covered in health.

Physical education classes for freshmen and sophomores help these students learn sports such as basketball, soccer, baseball, and football. In the freshman classes, boys and girls are combined and taught dancing, from traditional square dances to modern steps. During the warmer season, track and baseball are included.

There are many different science courses offered at Franklin for both the college-bound student and students desiring only a basic knowledge of science.

Each student must complete one year of science for graduation requirements. Freshmen may take a general science course. This is designed to give a basic background. First year and second year biology are offered for those students who desire a more extensive knowledge. Chemistry and physics are available to students who have a science and math background. A physical science is offered to those students who do not have a math background, but who desire another science credit. Science seminar is offered to those students who have completed biology, physics, and chemistry by their senior year and who desire another year of science.

Horticulture Offered To Students Interested In Gardening

A greenhouse for a classroom? Yes, for those 21 fortunate Franklin boys who are enrolled in the unique horticulture class which is offered at Franklin and other surrounding high schools. The class holds lab and lecture sessions in a greenhouse on S.E. 72nd Avenue.

The course is especially useful to students who plan to go into nursery or florist work, or who are interested in learning more about the cultivation of plants. Due to small numbers of students in the class, each student is better able to obtain more individual assistance. Some of the senior boys who are enrolled in this class have already been placed in jobs at a wholesale nursery, a florist's or in landscape construction. Junior boys stay at the greenhouse for the full year's instruction, and those returning to the class next year will be placed in a job.

Plants, bouquets, or arrangements found from time to time in the office or in classrooms are products of the horticulture class. Students and faculty enjoy them for a time, care for them, and then find them replaced.

Students Become Well Versed On Current Affairs Through Social Studies

Surprised by presence of camera, Jay Burkenbine pauses from studies.

Through social studies, the student learns about the cultural world around him and becomes well-versed in history. Students are required to take three courses of social studies, but they may elect to take more if they desire.

In the freshman and junior year the emphasis of learning is on history. This includes a wide range of ancient history up into fairly recent times. The junior year is devoted especially to the study of American history and students make an intensive study of the Constitution. Some present problems of society are discussed.

The senior year's studies are focused on political science, sociology, economics, and international relations.

From these studies, the student emerges with a well rounded understanding of the world about him in which he is preparing to become a productive citizen. Because of the training received studying politics, economics, and history, the student can speak competently about and discuss intelligently the problems facing today's society.

The electives open to students are geography, European history, and history of the U.S.S.R. Outstanding students may participate in EE social studies classes which place more emphasis on present problems.

Future Teachers Enjoyed Responsibilities While Testing Goals

This is the first time that the Student Assistants Program has ever been put into action at Franklin High School. The program had its beginning at South Salem High School five years ago and has been going on there ever since. In this course, given at Franklin under the supervision of Mrs. Maxine Crites, the student assistants are seniors who have expressed an interest in teaching and have proved themselves capable in a wide area of subjects. Before signing up, they hold a conference with their counselors, who, if they feel the students are qualified make recommendations for them. One half of the year will be spent at the elementary level, and the other half will be spent at the high school level.

The course begins with an orientation period in the classroom of the supervising teacher for two to three weeks. During this time the students are given background knowledge in teaching to prepare them for work in the schools. Speakers are invited to give talks, and visits are made to schools for disadvantaged children, and to the Administration Building. The students read and have discussions on child growth and development.

When placed in the schools, the students will work a five day week beginning each day at 2:15 P.M. Full credit is received for this assistant work.

Good Food, Clean Halls, Provided By Adult Staffs

Two groups of people who are seldom recognized for their service at Franklin are the cafeteria staff and the custodial staff.

The custodians, who are essential in the operation of a school, have special duties. Among their responsibilities are cleaning the building and keeping all the machinery in good working order.

The cafeteria staff is kept busy preparing very large, inexpensive meals every day for hungry students. Students and teachers should take advantage of the cafeteria at Franklin because it is set up to serve them at the lowest cost possible. At Franklin, there are seventeen ladies employed in the adult cafeteria. Students are also given the privilege of assisting the adult staff by helping serve during all three lunch periods. Other students are trained to make proper change.

Mr. Britt Davis, instructor, points out that the projectionist's class provides an opportunity for sophomore, junior, and senior boys to learn the basic functions behind running projectors. They have the advantage of working with different electronic communication machines. The equipment used includes: sound projectors, slide projectors, overhead projectors, tape recorders, transcription players and many other different types of valuable equipment. The skills they acquire can be important after graduation.

The students enrolled in this class earn their unit of credit by showing films in classrooms during their study hall.

Stage Crew gives the student an opportunity to learn the techniques involved in stage productions. The class, headed by Mr. Kaiser, constructs stage settings for plays and assemblies. They also construct the settings used in the May Fete and Rose Festival ceremonies. Special effects, created by skillful lighting, are also under the direction of Mr. Kaiser and the stage crew.

P. T. A. And Dads' Club Assist In PIL Drive

The main project of the Dads' Club was to promote the PIL Fund Drive. They worked throughout the summer helping to raise the money for the athletics program.

An Italian spaghetti dinner prepared by the dads was held in the cafeteria before the Cleveland football game.

The Dads' Club also plans to sponsor an All-City Dance in the spring.

The P.T.A. promoted the PIL Drive, too. Throughout the summer, they prepared envelopes and helped organize the door-to-door button sale.

During the football season, the P.T.A. worked at the concession stands selling coffee, hot chocolate and candy to the hungry spectators.

The P.T.A. filled necessary positions to further school work. They assisted in the eye testing programs, the SCAT tests and the career conferences.

This year's fall senior class cabinet was active in planning for commencement on May 31 and baccalaureate to be held on May 19. The Senior Prom chairman, Marilyn Mizote, and the co-chairman, Gayle Stucki, began planning for the prom in September, involving much of the cabinet and committee's time. Senior Movie Committee chairman, Mark Swain, and his co-chairman, Jerry Jarboe, began their year-long project, creating the senior movie. This film, showing highlights of the seniors' last year in Franklin, will be viewed during the senior assembly at the end of the year.

The senior cabinet served as guides for freshmen on Orientation Day and aided the newest class with their first election.

In September, work was begun on Senior Spirit Week. Throughout the week, September 18 to 22, class cards were validated and "Senior's are Super" tags were sold. Aromatic pepperoni was offered for sale to hungry Quakers. The week was brought to a close with the Homecoming Dance. The following week, game tags were sold for the game against Marshall.

In November a bottle drive earned money for the class. December was activated by a class meeting depicting the Dating Game, in order to stimulate class card sales.

The Senior Class Faced Their Final Challenge

The Senior class cabinet discusses plans for the upcoming Senior Week.

As Spring Senior Class President, Steve Grove led the class through its final term. The first function of the new spring cabinet was the planning of the annual Senior-Faculty game. This entailed choosing Senior Rally Members and the Senior Basketball team.

Seniors elected Senior Mosts to honor those who had the most skill in a variety of fields.

Senior girls anticipated Rose Festival and May Fete selections. Tradition was altered this year with the May Fete Court reigning over the Senior Prom, and the Rose Festival court being selected by adults not connected with the school. Finally, Seniors looked forward to their remaining class activities, Senior Prom, baccalaureate and commencement.

Fall Junior Class Anticipates Prom

In order to fill the class treasury, the juniors held activities throughout the summer. Among these were bake sales and car washes. As school began, the fall cabinet started making preparations for Junior Week, one of the major events of their term in office. During this time several fund raising activities took place, the most important of which was validation of class cards. Others included a tag sale promoting class spirit, candy and bake sales, and a class sponsored after-game dance. The money earned went entirely toward financing the Junior Prom. Prom chairman and co-chairman were Peggy Siegle and Barbara Ehrig. It was finally determined that the theme of this year's Prom would be "Flower Drum Song."

Junior girls' counselors, Mrs. Weed and Miss Dundore, sift through class schedules.

Spring Class Officers: (Seated): Darlene Harris, Secretary; Cathie Loprinzi, President; Mike Casciato, Vice President. (Standing): Sergeants at Arms: Katy Holland, Kathy Timblin; Pat Beck, Publicity Chairman; Chris Alm, Sergeant at Arms; Pam Loprinzi, Treasurer; Elizabeth Jelineo, Sergeant at Arms.

Mr. Kearns serves as junior class counselor for 342 boys.

Spring Cabinet Plans Next Year's Movie

The main concern of the spring class cabinet was the successful presentation of the Junior Prom, which took place April 19, 1968. In accordance with tradition, the prom was held in the school gym. The decoration committee, headed by Linda McFarlane, carried out the Oriental theme with a turquoise, lime green, hot pink, and gold color scheme. Providing music for the extravaganza was Bruce Kelly and his Orchestra.

As usual, class cards were validated to allow students to attend less expensively. The expense of the prom greatly depleted the class treasury, thus necessitating such fund-raising activities as pop bottle and paper drives and tag sales.

It was also the job of spring cabinet to look into matters concerning the filming of the senior movie. At the time of this writing the chairman and co-chairman have not been chosen.

Sophomores Go A-Begging Due To Levy Failure

The most important item on the agenda of the fall sophomore class cabinet was the success of Sophomore Week, December 4-8. The main event of this week was the sale of class cards. Mr. Nelson, the sophomore advisor, suggested a 25 cent donation be collected from each card purchaser to bolster the treasury. This became necessary when the school levy failed and the administration was forced to temporarily terminate the sophomore class sponsored after-game dance and a class sponsored assembly.

Rummage Sale Highlights Fund Drive

Succeeding President Dave Hudson, Mark Knutson and the spring cabinet of the sophomore class had two main objectives. The first was to promote school spirit among the growing number of apathetic students. Next, the class cabinet needed to raise more money. Two highlights of the fund drive were a rummage sale and a pop bottle drive. To back next year's Junior Prom, the cabinet planned a special assembly in the auditorium. To cultivate more class spirit, the officers promoted the final home game of the basketball season.

Freshmen Learn Proper Parliamentary Procedure

The freshman class officers began their term in office with one major goal in their sights. This was the drawing up of a constitution which would serve as a guideline for their class during their high school years. The fledgling cabinet relied heavily on Mr. Hashberger, their advisor, to teach them the protocol necessary for performing the duties of their offices. He also aided them in thinking up such money-making schemes as car washes and bake sales.

Ed Sheets calls a meeting to order

Ed Sheets Heads P. I. L. Paper Drive

Ed Sheets, Student Body President, best described his term in office as "The Year of the New Tradition."

During the summer, Executive Cabinet supported the "PIL" drive. They held a paper drive which netted $1,200.00 for the reinstatement of "PIL" athletics.

Two goals were set for the year. The first, and certainly the most obvious, was that Franklin should have as many activities as allowed by the school board. These activities included Homecoming and the Candyland Dance. The traditional Candyland Dance experimented on a new idea to encourage student participation. It was suggested to make the dance a dress-up dance instead of semi-formal. The success of the innovation will determine whether a new tradition will be established.

The second goal was to urge students to participate more in student government. They more than accomplished this from the first day of school. Active discussions in all classes, led by student council members, showed the interest students had in activities around the campus.

Marilyn Mizote, Mary Louise Ott, and Elaine Schibel discuss the 1967 Almanac.

Roger Kruse Elected Spring Student Body President

Roger Kruse informs the cabinet of plans for Safety Week.

Safety Week, March 18-22 was promoted by the spring Executive cabinet. The week began with a car check on Monday, and continued with a written test on Wednesday, the behind-the-wheel driving test on Thursday, and ended Friday with an assembly, and in the evening a free dance in the gym.

The cabinet plans to purchase a new flag for the auditorium, paint the parking lines, and organize a program for playing music in the cafeteria at lunch, during their term. They also plan to sponsor a Red Cross Drive in the spring.

Six student body officers from Centennial High School were guests of our Executive Cabinet on March 1. Their administrators sent them here to observe how our cabinet functioned. They are planning some changes in their cabinet.

Student Council Haggles Over Dress Code

Fall Student Council President, Virginia Tyler

The fall Student Council, led by Virginia Tyler, has considered a record number of resolutions. With the help of President Pro Tempore Steve Grove, Secretary Janet Brown, and faculty advisor Mr. Donald Holt, student council plunged themselves into school problems.

The drawing up of a new dress code received priority. When the 1967-1968 dress code, drawn up by the Executive Cabinet, was published in the school paper, it brought criticisms and complaints from many of the students. It was then voted on for acceptance in Student Council, but was defeated. Various resolutions pertaining to the dress code, which include such proposals as allowing bermudas and no socks for the boys, and no set skirt length for the girls, have been brought up for discussion, but as yet a final decision has not been reached. To enable the Student Council to accomplish more, a suggestion box has been set up in the main hall. Meetings have been lengthened to allow for more discussion.

Spring Student Council President, Phil Carroll.

The Spring Student Council, led by Phil Carroll, had an exciting year. Most of the excitement was a follow-through on the dress code.

This code, after being revised by Student Council, was passed by the Representatives. It allowed boys to wear bermudas with long socks. Girls' skirts were to be no more than three inches above the knee. Girls could wear coulottes with a flair.

This revision of the dress code received criticism, not only from students but also from teachers. Someday, maybe, there'll be an agreement on what would be considered proper school attire.

The proposal to adopt an unfortunate foreign child was passed. Next year the Council is planning to begin this adoption.

History

EPIX Featured At AFM Assembly

Under the leadership of Mike McMurray, fall AFM president, AFM Week proved to be the most successful in Franklin's history. During the week, they earned a record of five hundred dollars from the sale of AFM cards and slaves. The slave sale alone earned seventy-five dollars. The final event of AFM Week was the special assembly featuring the Epix. All who purchased AFM cards were admitted to the assembly.

The men of AFM took on several projects for the year. Among them are having a combo play during lunch hour and having large trees planted out front along the parking lot on Woodward.

Last year, the men of AFM made plans to buy a war memorial honoring Franklin students who have died in military service. They are still interested in the memorial and positioning it by the flag pole facing the school.

Another project is buying a new American flag and a new school flag for the auditorium.

War Memorial Culminates AFM Projects

American Legion participates with Drum and Bugle Corps, in the AFM dedication.

Spring AFM Historian, Bob Marshall; Treasurer, Nat Flatheers; Secretary, Dan Trinci.

This spring term, AFM was led by Paul Taylor, President. His most important goal was to promote interest in AFM. One of the projects was the dedication of the War Memorial on March 1st.

The War Memorial, consisting of a marble plaque and four gumwood trees, is in honor of former Franklin students who have sacrificed their lives in the services of our nation. Two ex-Franklin boys have given their lives in the war in Vietnam. Their parents attended the services. The American Legion, AFM officers, executive cabinet officers, the administration, and newsmen were present for the ceremonies.

The last event of Paul's term of office will be the election of Man of the Year.

Spring AFM Vice-President, John Savory; President, Paul Taylor.

A.G.S. Publishes Paper

Fall AGS President, Dana Zink; Secretary, Kathy Estes; Vice-President Kathy Pearson.

Small booklets explaining the purpose and activities of AGS were made available to all girls of Franklin for the first time this year. Rules for behavior and a copy of the AGS song were included.

Each registration room elected a girl to attend the AGS meetings and report back to her room the plans for upcoming activities. Each fall term one girl is chosen to represent her class on the cabinet throughout the year. The Year Reps for this year include freshman, Pam McQuaw; sophomore, Jean Rivera; Junior, Terrie Smith; and Senior, Susan Lang.

The AGS cabinet initiated a new idea of publishing a small paper for the girls. This publication, entitled "Petticoat Press," will give girls the opportunity to submit stories or poems, as well as to inform them of the upcoming activities at Franklin and other schools.

The cabinet held joint meetings with the girls from other schools to exchange ideas for promoting interest and enthusiasm among the girls.

Each year the major event of the AGS is the Twirp Week. This week is usually highlighted by the Friday night Twirp Dance, to which the girls ask the fellow; however, due to the levy failure there will be no dance this year. Despite this fact the enthusiastic spring cabinet and representatives, led by President Lindy Johnston, are planning new activities for Twirp Week. The main money-making project will be the Slave Sale at which the men of A.F.M. bid for the senior girls who are hidden behind the curtain, showing only their feet. The highest bidder has the girl for his slave for the remainder of the day.

A.G.S. sponsored a Fashion Show put on by the Hi-Board representatives on March 8. The latest in spring fashions were modeled by the A.G.S. reps. Door prizes which included a charm bracelet from Klein's Jewelers, a month membership at Loprinzi's Gym, and a wiglet from Wig World, were given away to girls whose names were drawn at random.

The cabinet is now in the process of organizing the Big and Little Sister program for next year's incoming freshmen.

Long Practices Produce Determined Team

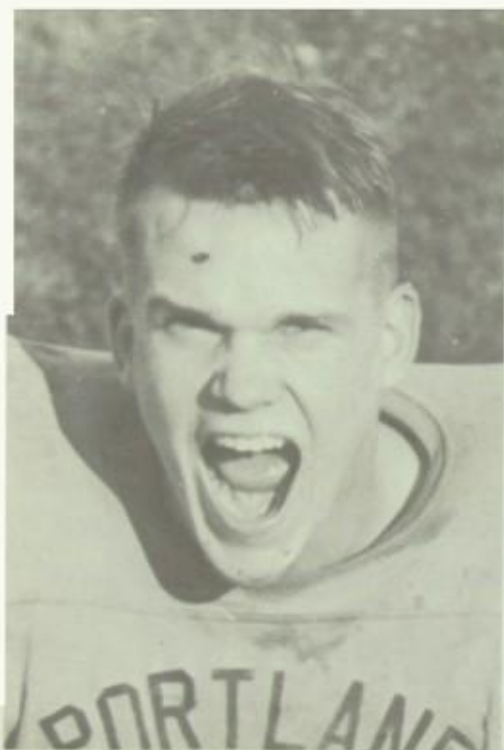

Long pre-season practices combined with good coaching by Coach Walt Buckiewicz produced a determined and spirited '68 Varsity Football team. This year, because of the number of high schools in the city, the different teams had to be divided into separate groups, with the winners of each division meeting in a play-off game for the championship. Along with separate division competition, each team played a number of pre-season games to balance this schedule. Franklin's team started with two pre-season wins against Jefferson and Lincoln high schools. With these wins under their belts, the Quakers went into the regular season games with high hopes and determination. The team culminated the season with a 4 win, 4 loss record, bringing to an end a tough season with rough competition.

J. V. Compile Excellent Record

This year's J.V. Football team completed a successful season under the leadership of Coach Hal Elmers. Strenuous practices combined with scrimmages with the varsity team built a prepared and determined J.V. team. The J.V. teams this year, like the Varsity, were divided into divisions because of the number of schools. Upon faring well in the pre-season games, a determined J.V. team went into the regular season games high spirited. The J.V. terminated an excellent season with a 6 win, 2 loss record.

Frosh Complete Undefeated Season

This year's freshman football team had an exceptional season. Except for a tie with Grant, the team was undefeated. These results surprised Coach Burri. When the season began, the team was in poor shape, but their intense enthusiasm and marvelous desire to win rallied them to success. To make a good team there must be real devotion to the game. "The freshmen really have it," stated Coach Burri. This rang true as the frosh racked up a total of 104 points while holding their opponents to 30.

The team strength sprang from their ability to score during any and every game. The defense knew this so they held the other teams from scoring.

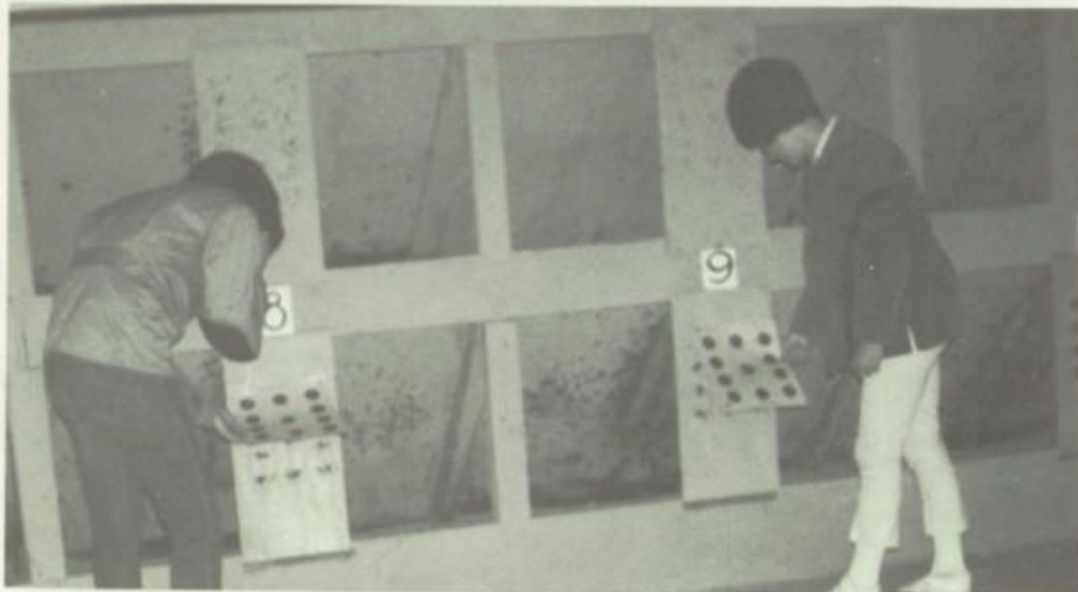

The frosh elected their own team captains: Jim Poujade, Greg Parrish, Greg Keller and Bob Eustler. The two top scorers for the season were Dan Hall and Greg Keller.

Hard work, tough competition, and sound coaching by Coach Scheele were not in vain as the varsity placed 7th in the city meet, the junior varsity placed 6th in the city meet, and the freshman team placed 5th.

Strenuous Practice Rallies '67 Swim Team

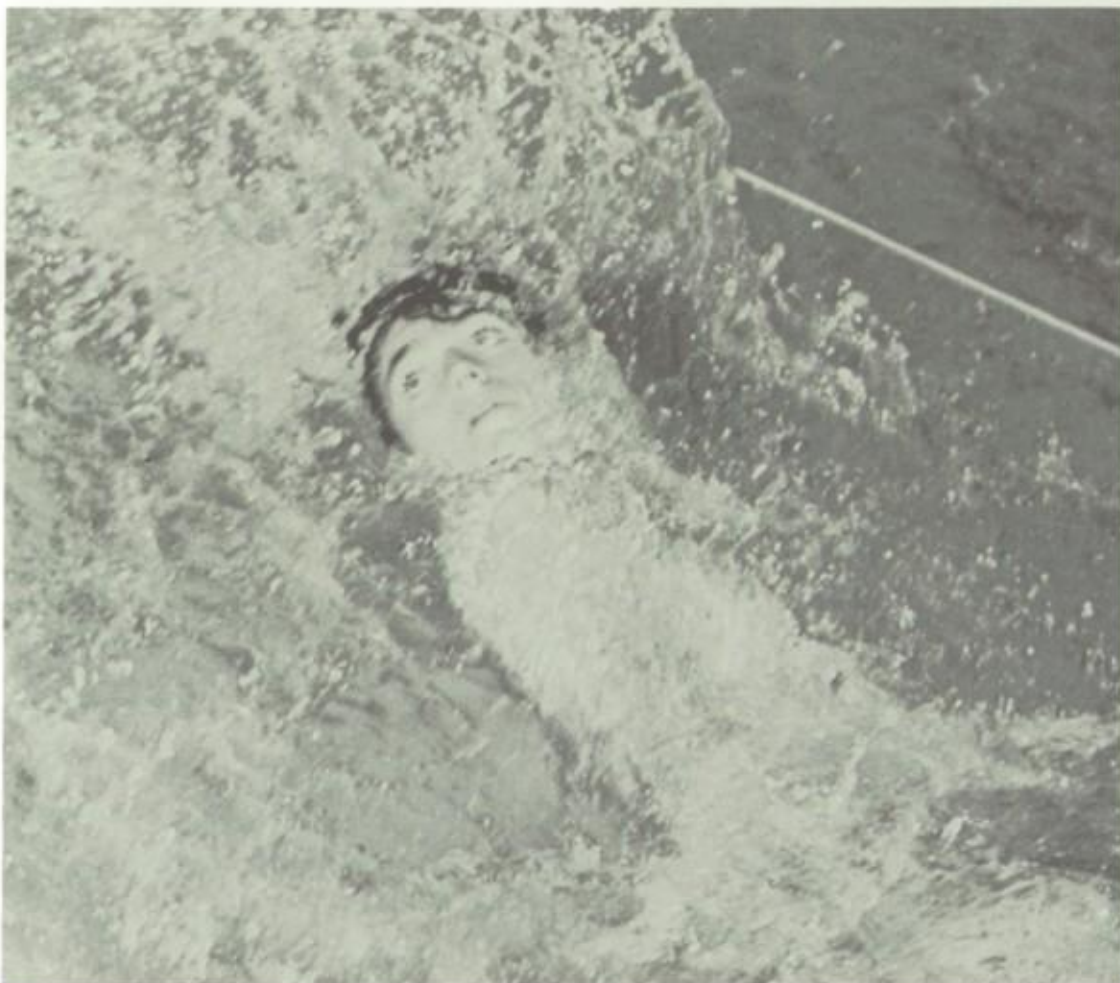

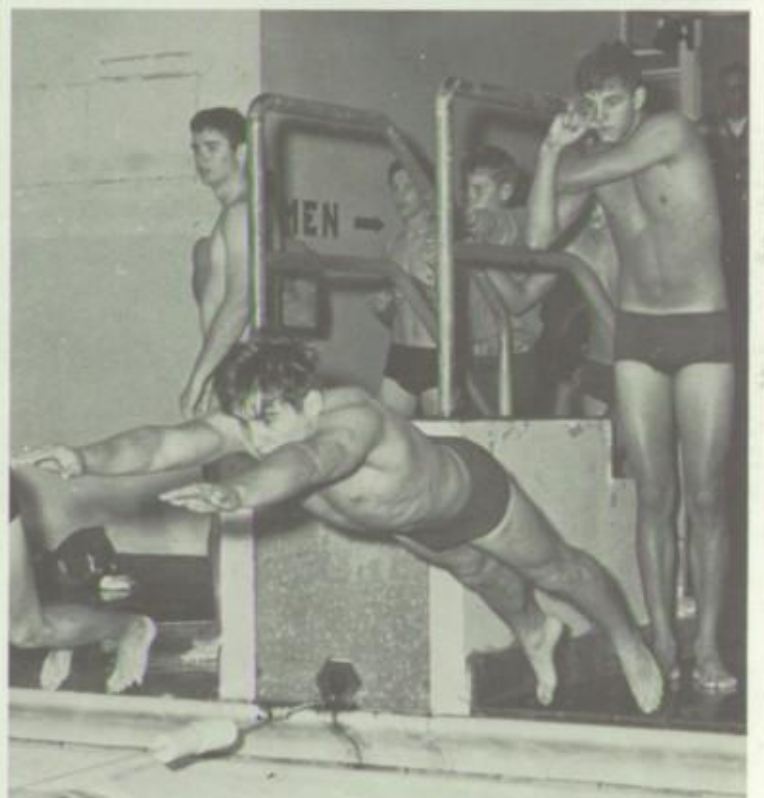

This year's varsity swimming team has high hopes for future competition. The boys were much better swimmers than in previous years. The team had only one senior, and since the boys always continue to improve their skills, the prospect for the coming years looks even brighter. The same held true for the girls. Although their team was small in number, they had a great deal of potential, and, like the boys, improve with strenuous practice. This year's team has shown premature signs of their success for the future.

Spirited Rally Supports Determined Team

An after school assembly took place last spring for the purpose of announcing, the new members of the football-wrestling rally for the fall of the 1967-1968 school year. As soon as school was out and the summer vacation had started, the girls started practicing their yells and dances. They practiced an average of three or four days a week. After the school levy was defeated for a second time, in July, all the rallies in the city got together to elect one member of each rally to represent them on a committee to organize the "Save the P.J.L." drive. Franklin's representative was junior Judy Fazzolari. The girls took two or three weeks off from practice to help in the drive. They went from door to door soliciting funds, and worked on an all-city car wash and dance.

Varsity Basketball Players Have Successful Season

This year's Varsity basketball team had an outstanding season. Although their won-loss record was not as well as it could have been, all the boys on the team agree that it was an invaluable season as far as experience was concerned. Among the outstanding seniors who contributed to the success of the season were Dan Velander and Byron Lindholm. Outstanding juniors were Rick Long and Dan McElhaney.

Freshman Basketball Team Completes Challenging Season

This year's Freshman basketball team had a successful season under the leadership of Coach Willis. This year's team fought a hard season with continuous preparation. The team's success in gaining important skills and practice can be attributed to the determination and spirit of the Frosh team. This year's Frosh B-Ball leaves great prospects for the future.

Varsity Wrestlers Take P.I.L.

This year's Varsity wrestling team finished number one in the city. Under the leadership of Coach Burri, and the strong determination of the boys themselves, this season produced one of the finest wrestling teams Franklin has seen in years. This success was due mainly to, hard work, much team spirit and outstanding efforts by varsity wrestlers Ken Bolder, Jay Hopkins, Mike McMurray and George Andyke. However, the season did not go without a mishap as early in the season varsity wrestler George Andyke suffered a dislocated shoulder.

Franklin can be proud of every single team member, for outstanding efforts by all were required to make Franklin's '68 wrestling team number one in Portland.

Rally Starts Season Early With "Save P.I.L." And Organization Of J.V. Rally

This year's varsity basketball rally started the season by introducing their outfits in a joint assembly with the wrestling rally and J.V. basketball rally. Preparation for the season began last summer when the girls held their practices. They worked with the other rallies in the city on the "Save the PIL" city wide car wash and fund drive. After school began they organized the J.V. rally eliminations and try outs and helped them get started. As a get acquainted project, the Varsity Rally had a banquet with rallies from other schools.

After School Assembly Reveals J.V. Rally

After the eliminations, each finalist trying out for J.V. rally presented her own routine to go with a yell from the yell book. Each girl tried out separately, then all twelve performed collectively. The six winners were announced in an after school assembly in the main hall. The six girls who make up the rally are: sophomores, Kathy Fuglee and Patty Smith and freshmen Terry Brock, Patty Ball, Carla Tweten, and Susie Miller. The girls began their practices immediately and drilled every night until the season began in December.

The unveiling of their outfits came in a joint assembly with the varsity rallies. Maroon jackets with white trim and maroon and white box pleated skirts composed the new uniforms.

Before each game the girls bought each member of the team a treat.

P. I. L. Fund Drive Saves Sports

The Portland Interscholastic League seemed doomed until spirited Quakers, along with many others, participated in a fund drive which raised more than $200,000 needed to save the PIL. The sports program at Franklin and each of the other Portland high schools was threatened because of a lack of funds due to the school district levy failure.

Franklin students had a drive to haul in 33 tons of paper. SAVE PIL buttons were sold door-to-door, at Beaver baseball games, and at two professional football games. Various social service clubs gathered pop bottles and returned them to stores, giving the money to the PIL. Student body officers served Coke and ice cream while selling PIL buttons at an American Service Station. Franklin raised $1,200, the most raised by any single Portland high school, and donated this to the PIL fund.

Each princess was presented with a corsage of white roses; their escorts received boutonnieres of white carnations. The Queen was given a dozen red roses by the 1966 Homecoming Queen, Chris Walsh.

For the first time in seven years, Grant lost a student body card sale contest and the Franklin Quakers had the honor of being the victors. Although percentages for both schools were lower than expected, Franklin was able to overcome Grant by 2.4 percentage points.

As a result of the Quaker victory, Grant's student body president, Bob Heldfond, was required to come to Franklin and participate in an assembly. Dressed in painter's overalls, he painted two garbage cans in "Grant blue." Bob good-naturedly became the target of eggs, tomatoes, whipped cream, syrup and flour, all provided by Franklin's executive cabinet. Wads of paper were tossed at the visiting president by the audience.

Then, adding insult to injury, Bob was placed in a stockade and forced to watch a rally assembly in which spirit was raised for the forthcoming football game against Grant.

"For Spirit, Let's Hear It"

Rally promotes spirit during football assembly.

Presentation of the new football rally outfits took place at our first rally assembly, held on September 15. A skit was enacted in which the rally members represented fairytale characters. After the skit the girls emerged doing the traditional umbrella dance, thus unveiling their new costumes. The girls and boys outfits were of the customary maroon and gray, with a new twist of gray hats for the girls.

Franklin's second football assembly was presented on Friday, October 13. The members of the rally performed a skit, the theme of it being, "Lack of Spirit." Each member of the rally represented a typical student at a Franklin game. The purpose of the skit was to chide the students for spirit and participation at their Franklin games.

Groovy, Super, Tuff, Keen, Great, Neat, Nice, Kind, Lovable, Splendid, Miraculous, Intelligent, Humorous, Spirited, Ambitious, Good Looking, Mysterious, and Better Than Ever... was the theme of this year's Junior Class Spirit Tags. During the Junior Class Spirit Week the Junior officers sold charm suckers, on Monday, and spirit tags on Tuesday and Wednesday. Also, on Tuesday, during a class meeting, a skit was presented by the class officers in the hope that this would promote class card sales. Class cards were validated during the entire week, for $2.00. This card admitted the holder to the Junior class sponsored dance, and later, to the Junior Prom. The New Delta Rhythm Boys were featured at the class dance following the Franklin-Cleveland football game. The week was very successful with a profit of $500.00 which will be used for decorations for the Junior Prom.

Elliott and Nell are completely serious about the murder.

The drama department's first production this year, December 1 and 2, was The Gazebo written by Alec and Myra Coppel. The gazebo, a garden house, was the burial spot for a long unidentified body, which added mystery and suspense to the plot. Elliott Nash's dislike for his wife's favorite shower curtains with green sea horses on them, along with Nell Nash's watchful eye on his low calorie diet consisting of pork chops and Rye Krisp, provided some delightful laughter in the serious plot.

The end is near as Elliott, who is charged with murder, is about to be taken away by the police. Then it is discovered that the victim died of a heart attack, not a bullet wound.

Drama coach Mr. Gary Kaiser was assisted by student director Mary Louise Ott. Thanks to the many hours spent by these two people, the cast, and all those who worked behind the scenes, no one left the play unsatisfied.

Slave Sale Pays For "Epix" Assembly

Ron Marraccini solos on the drums.

A.F.M. Week, November 12-17, proved to be a financial success. The selling of A.F.M. cards to the student body took place Monday through Thursday. Early Tuesday morning, at 7:45, in the auditorium, the annual Slave Sale was held. Boys volunteered their services as slaves. Groups of girls got together to scrape up the $2.00 to $8.00 Mike McMurray requested for the services of these good sports. The attire of the boys ranged from rumpled fatigues to amusing, bright colored 'jams. Girls finally got to rule the boys, even if it was just for a day. They had the boys opening doors, carrying books, getting lunches and just plain acting like gentlemen.

Friday brought an end to the fundraising activities with a special, entertaining assembly. Only students who purchased A.F.M. cards during the week were allowed to attend. The well-known combo, the Epix, provided 45 minutes of entertainment.

Parents Take Students' Places In Classroom Situations

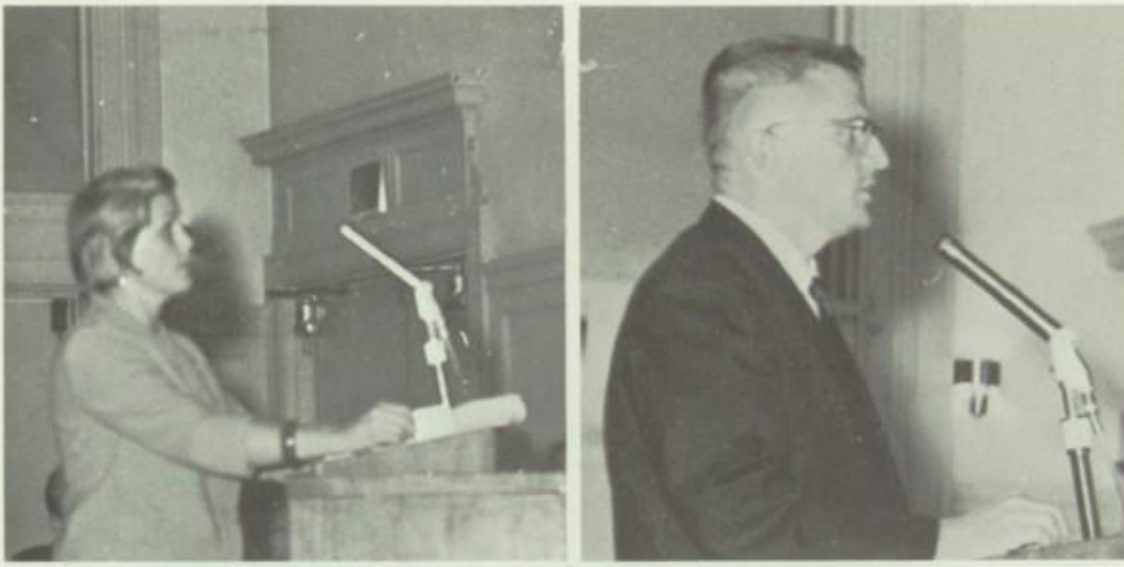

Franklin parents got a glimpse of the active school life their teenagers lead at the annual Parents' Night, November 15. "A" choir started the parents' busy evening with several songs, preceded by greetings and instructions from Mr. Westcott. The parents then went on their way to hear about the methods of study and programs that are designed by the teachers for each course for the year. Going from class to class, being amazed by the new math, confused with chemistry, and perhaps a bit bored with American literature was an experience that wouldn't be forgotten. Parents were mystified by varying room numbers that jumped up and down in size, and found that the six minutes given them wasn't sufficient for traveling time between classes. The Lettermen's club had refreshments for the parents during their study halls and lunch periods.

Parents are intrigued by teachers comments.

Board Meets Here hurry

Franklin had the honor of having the first of a series of school board meetings in neighborhood schools in its auditorium, November 13. The faculties and parents from the surrounding schools were invited to come and see what went on during a board meeting. Visitors could have questions that they wanted to discuss brought up at the meeting by calling earlier and having them added to the agenda. About 250 people attended the meeting. The board passed bills concerning everything from the dates of basketball games in the Coliseum to the buying of electric typewriters. Sitting in the audience was the honored Mr. Kiyashi Takahashi, visiting from Portland's sister city, Sapporo, Japan. Mr. Takahashi, who is a member of the Sapporo school board, came to observe the workings of our board in action. It was necessary to have an interpreter for Mr. Takahashi due to the fact that he was unable to understand English.

Their outfits were pleated white skirts with red and grey trim topped off by a white sweater with stripes that matched the colors in the skirt.

The wrestling rally showed the student body grey and maroon jumpers worn with coordinating tights, after a scene that had Santa Steve passing out packages to the supposedly shy and unwilling little receivers.

The J.V. rally sported new white suits with a scooped-neck jacket and a skirt featuring box pleats that were trimmed in grey and red. The spirit of our rallies began our basketball-wrestling season with a booming start.

Careers In Government Stressed

Franklin's vocational department, headed by Mr. Manning, held its sixteenth bi-annual Career Information Conference. Mr. Robert Duncan opened the two day conference December 6, with a single assembly for all sophomores and upper classmen. The topic this year was "Careers in Government." Careers in government were especially stressed, but the students' requests for subjects to be covered were also fulfilled. Examples of varying topics were Criminology, Dentistry, and Engineering.

The freshman class, for the first time, had a chance to participate in a similar program. They got to choose three from the 24 main areas offered.

Thanks to Mr. Manning, some 175 conference were led by prominent men and women of our community. These people donated their time in order that the students might get a better understanding of what is expected of them in the working world they will soon face.

Dan Trinci and Valerie Holmes discuss theme of Candyland dance

The Christmas season at Franklin opened with an Executive Cabinet assembly to advertise the Candyland dance. Performing in the assembly were the Hi-Lites, ten senior girls, who have sung together since the end of their freshman year. The girls in the group are Linda Draper, Donna Hesson, Leslie Schreiber, Kathy Pearson, Virginia Tyler, Sally Warner, Janet Hartzell, Sylvia Hill-lesland, and Dana Zink. Their pianist is Evelyn Lushenko.

December 19th, the date of Franklin's annual Christmas program, fulfilled all students' hopes by dawning cold, cloudy, and snowy. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Pancheau played music for a "Winter Wonderland." Members of the vocal music department sang some of the traditional Christmas songs.

"Babes in Toyland" was the 1967 theme for the Candyland Dance. Due to the conditions created by the snow, on the evening of the Candyland dance, the dance was cancelled. The hard-working Executive Cabinet, however, decided to have the Candyland Dance in January. The new date was set for January 13th, and the cabinet hopes that this will become a tradition in the coming years.

Norad And Musicians Inform and Entertain

Speaker informs students about missile defense systems in the U.S.

On February 27th, Franklin seniors and juniors attended an assembly in which they learned about NORAD, the North American Air Defense System. Two men from Bell Telephone were present to show slides and speak to the students about the system. The student body was alert and receptive to the vital information with which they were provided, concerning the protection of the United States from nuclear air attack.

The highlight of the assembly came when the speaker placed a long distance call to NORAD headquarters in Colorado. He answered questions posed by the speaker, Dr. Tompkin, and then students were given a chance to ask any questions they might have.

The highlight of the assembly came when Johannes did a dance which originated in Austria. All students enjoyed the songs of the trio, which were sung in German, the language of Austria.

The three men were hams when the picture taking started. This brought much laughter from the student body.

Annually, seniors meet faculty in a contest of basketball skills (??) to determine the school champions for that year. In 1963 the faculty started a trend which the class of '68 was unable to break. The faculty now has a record of six straight wins.

Both teams, however, were at their peak performance and the game was an exciting one. An assembly the day of the big game gave equal time to both rally squads, but undoubtedly the seniors came through with the best skit. A computer was built by the exalted computer-maker, Edward Sheets, and was programmed to predict the outcome of the game. The seniors had everything going for them, but luck allowed the out-dated faculty to win.

Seniors were delighted when no rally came to the game to cheer for the faculty. The feature of half-time was the presentation of a skit by the senior class cabinet, illustrating the controversial dress code.

Losing had little effect on the morale of the almighty seniors. They came back to school the next day with many witticisms about old and knobby knees.

Each year Franklin students participate in a variety of political activities, both in and out of school. Included every year are the student-body and class elections. The 1967-68 school year, however, found students attending speaking engagements of Senator Edmund Brooke of Massachusetts, Governor Ronald Reagan of California, Mayor John Lindsay of New York City, and Oregon's own Governor Tom McCall.

This year interest in student government was high as 14 people ran for the five student-body offices. This provided the voting students an opportunity to choose more qualified officers to serve them. Voting percentages were the best in at least four years for both student-body and class elections.

Through arrangements made by Mr. McKee and the social studies department, interested and politically enthusiastic students were privileged to hear noted political figures speak to Portland audiences. During the summer, students heard Senator Brooke at the 1967 National Urban League convention. In the fall, they attended meetings to hear Governors Reagan and McCall. Mayor Lindsay spoke for the observance of Lincoln's birthday.

Officer Sutter And Cabinet Promote Drive For Safety

Inspection insures that license plate light is operating properly.

Students enjoyed taking driving test in city police car.

Tests are corrected and finalists announced.

Safety Week is an annual event in each Portland high school. Its purpose is to encourage students to become and then to remain better drivers.

Officer Sutter is a big help at Franklin each year. He administers a written test to those interested in taking it. The 15 Franklin students who score the highest on this test are then given an actual driving test. This year these students took the driving test in a Portland police car, an impressive experience for both the drivers and their envious friends. Based on this test, the five best drivers at Franklin are chosen. These students are awarded seat belts, engraved with their name and the place they achieved, during the Safety assembly.

This year the Safety Week speaker was Len Sutton, race driver at the Indianapolis 500. The week ended with a dance sponsored by Executive Cabinet.

'Incense and Peppermint' was the theme for this year's Twirp Week, April 1-5, carried out with the burning of incense during lunch periods and the selling of peppermint sticks on Friday after school. AGS planned and carried out a week full of activities. Monday was color day in which boys participated by wearing blue and green and girls by wearing pink and yellow. Tuesday twirp-o-grams were sold during lunch periods for 5c to be delivered Wednesday in reg rooms. During all three lunch periods Wednesday students played the dating game in the auditorium. Thursday, the AGS assembly featured the C.C. Riders for all the students who had purchased AGS buttons. Friday brought a close to the busy week with a slave sale before school. The slaves sold for sums ranging from $1.25 to $3.90.

Class Of '69 Chooses 'Flower Drum Song'

Princess Cathie Loprinzi and Prince Bob Marshall are escorted by Arthur Frohwerk and Derek Monore from Friars.

Bruce Kelly's band gives a lively beat.

Cheryl Bartel, Dale Barnhart, and Roger Moore stop by the refreshment table.

For Japanese Inspired Junior Prom Theme

The class of '69 chose April 19 as the date of their Junior Prom. 'Flower Drum Song' was the theme that brought out a Japanese atmosphere. The dance took place in the gym where many students had devoted hours to decoration. Bruce Kelly's band provided the music for the 140 couples who attended. Men of Friars escorted members of the court from the door to the stage. Royal couples "rode" in a rickshaw pulled by members of the boys' honorary club. From the court chosen two weeks earlier, the Juniors voted for a King and Queen Friday during their lunch periods. They chose as their Queen, Nancy Stoutenburg, and as their King, Jon Riesenman.

Under the capable direction of Peggy Siegle, as Junior Prom chairman, the committies planned and carried out every minute detail of the prom.

Couples, resting between dances read fortunes hidden in cookies.

May Fete Beauties Serve School

Susan Deems

Valerie Holmes

In Franklin's May Fete, pretty girls and service go together. Nominated by senior social studies classes, the top ten are presented to the entire class in an assembly. After each girl is introduced and her qualifications are read, the seniors vote for a court of seven.

In an all-school assembly the students are given opportunity to know the girls' contributions in service to the school during their four years.

The seven finalists from the class of '68 are: Susan Deems, Valerie Holmes, Lindy Johnston, Marilyn Mizote, Kathy Pearson, Gayle Stucki, and Virginia Tyler. On May 3, one will be chosen Queen, to reign both for May Fete and the Senior Prom.

Linda Smith

In 1968, the final seven candidates for Franklin's Rose Festival Princess were chosen by a group of five businessmen and women from the community. The seven girls were then presented to the student body.

Elaine Schibel, wearing a sky blue gown with puffed sleeves, was presented to Franklin students on April 18 as their 1968 hope for Rose Festival Queen. She will reign until the 1969 princess is chosen.

Miss Driscoll Sees Changes During Thirty-Nine Year Tenure

One of Franklin's art teachers, Miss Mary Ellen Driscoll, retired this year after having taught art at Franklin for thirty-nine years.

Miss Driscoll, who attended both Marylhurst for two years, and the Art Institute of Chicago, obtained her Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from the University of Oregon. She later went on to Reed to study toward her Master's degree.

Before she began her teaching career, however, she studied under such famous artists and designers as Rudolph Shaef-fer of the School of Color and Design in San Francisco, and Emil Jacques, a Belgian artist, and Sydney Bell of the Royal Academy.

During her first year of teaching she was the only art teacher at Franklin. Consequently she taught two art classes at once. Later, when the art department was expanded and the art wing was added, she designed both her own room and the adjoining ceramics room.

Miss Driscoll's interior design class is the only one taught in the Portland schools. Many now-successful designers got their start in Miss Driscoll's interior design class. One of these is Dick Miller, a leading Portland interior designer.

Both Betty Bronson Kelly, a noted painter, and Merle Boyer, an outstanding jewelry manufacturer, were inspired by Miss Driscoll's teaching.

Miss Driscoll's retirement will mark the end of her long and successful teaching career. Students and faculty will remember her for her tremendous contributions to Franklin and its art department.

Miss McKercher Retires After Thirty Years At Franklin

A distinguished member of the Franklin faculty, Miss Cecil McKercher, ended her teaching career with the close of the school year.

After graduating from the University of Oregon in 1927, with Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts degrees, Miss McKercher continued her schooling by enrolling in summer sessions at Reed and the University of Washington.

She became a member of the Franklin faculty in 1938 after previously teaching for eight years at Cleveland, then known as Commerce High School. During her thirty years at Franklin she has taught a variety of language courses, including Russian and Latin. In addition she has taught speech and drama, as well as sophomore and senior English classes.

Miss McKercher's time hasn't been occupied by activities of a purely academic nature, however. She has always found enjoyment in working on May Fete and Rose Festival projects. In the past it has been her privilege to instruct the Rose Festival candidates on the graces of curtsying. Aiding the May Fete candidates in the formalities of walking gracefully down the aisle and looking poised while on stage were also services credited to Miss McKercher.

Miss Thomas toasts Miss McKercher at Curriculum Council meeting.

Cathie,
well it sure
has been fun
getting to know you this year. It's hard to believe that the year is over again, but I guess it is. Just think, next year will be a big seniors and then it's all over. Well it sure has been a fun and good school year (whenever I could stay out of D.H.'s office) that is! Well as far as I can see, this summer is off to a good start, I guess I can't see of fun this summer and have loads and loads
I guess that about wraps it up for this time. So heres to one of the nicest girls I'll ever gotten the privilege to know. I'll see you this summer.

Love ya,
Steve

Howdy,
I guess this is the most dull class I'd have ever been
in. I'm no speech writer
so, I hope I see you this summer & have fun.
